Just about every grower in the state of Florida is acquainted with extensive damage by mole crickets. Thousands of dollars in losses have been reported in many areas from this infestation. But no longer do planters have to put up with subterranean pests, for chemical research in the great plants of the Veliscol Corporation has brought out a product that is recommended for the control of mole crickets. Its name is chloridane and its application is simple, rendering immediate results. In fact, there are many reports that in infested fields treated with chloridane, hundreds of dead mole crickets may appear on the surface by the next day.

Chloridane effectively controls not only mole crickets but cut worms, ants, wireworm and many other soil infesting insects. So don't be caught sleeping while mole crickets work. Specify chloridane in your next formulation.

For further details consult your county agent or local dealer for proper recommendations.

Chloridane controls household insects, too.

The Brotherhood will be in complete charge of the services and various members will make the daily evening addresses. All male choir will present special musical numbers at each service, according to the pastor, The Rev. James N. Purcell.

The public is invited to attend any or all of these special services.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL CONCLUDES PROGRAM SUN.

The annual Vacation Bible School closed its two-week session with a program at the church Sunday evening. The children were presented in a program of recitations, Bible verses, songs and singing.

A picnic marked the Friday last day program. There was also an exhibit of handwork made in the crafts period. The Junior girls had made embroidered dish towels for the Orphans Home. The older boys made minor repairs on the church building as their project in hand work.

LEGION SPONSORS FISH FRY IN NEW HALL

The American Legion Post no. 161 of South Bay put on a fish and hush puppy fry as the initial event in the new Legion Hall which has been erected on North West Canal Street during the summer.

The building is of cement block construction, with poured floor and roof, reinforced to stand hurricane winds. It has been stuccoed on the outside and plastered on the inside with windows set in aluminum frames.

Restrooms, plumbing and lighting have been installed but much of the interior finishing is still to be done.

The dinner was to secure funds to buy tables and 50 chairs which have been ordered. They made approximately $75 clear on the dinner besides a number of contributions and donations. They are planning on a much more ambitious affair in November.

The Lions Club took dinner with the American Legion Thursday evening as well as a large number of townspeople. A hundred and ten plates were served during the evening.

Melvin Herring, chairman of the Walking Blood Bank for the Lions Club, had arranged with the Belle Glade Hospital for Roy H. Sheffield, laboratory technician, to be present for blood typing of all members of the Lions Club. This was accomplished and a number of others at the supper were also typed at that time, 38 in all. Miss Frances McAllister, who is on the office staff at the hospital, assisted Sheffield as a volunteer worker.

Herring stated that the Lions Club plans to have a second clinic here in the near future to continue this work. Their goal is to have every person in South Bay as a part of this Walking Blood Bank program. He stated that if every person has their blood type on record at the hospital it will save valuable time and perhaps lives in case of emergency. Not only in case their blood might be needed for a transfusion for some other person but in case the donor might at some time need a transfusion. Having the blood type on record in the files will save a lot of lost motion and time in either an individual or a mass emergency, he pointed out.

Dale E. Spences Announces Candidates for Governor

Dale E. Spences, Kissimmee, has announced his candidacy for governor in the 1952 election at a recent Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon. He was introduced by Bob Cody, editor of the Florida Cattleman.

Stating that "there is only one plank in my platform—"kill the sales tax" Spences said: "We must absolutely have one candidate who runs only on the idea of killing the sales tax. I am that candidate." Spences, 50, the son of a minister, is married and has two sons. "If I am elected," Spences said, "it will simply have to be on this one issue. I am not good looking. I have no cattle range, no orange grove, no bank, no social connections which could influence an election."

First battle between white races in the U. S. was fought, 1855, at Fort Caroline, near Jacksonville.

You can Beat the Bushes— but you can't Beat this

If you want to know why I shrewd car shoppers are saying "Smart Buy's Buick," take a look at this.

It's the new Buick SPECIAL 2-door, 6-passenger Sedan—and it's roomier than most 4-door sedans, higher-powered than many costlier cars—and priced, as you can see, right down near the lowest.

Now, we ask you: where can you beat it for the money?

Can you beat this beauty on looks and style and rich bearing in any other car near its price?

Can you match, at the same money, the big power of its valve-in-head Fireball Engine (128 hp with DynaFlow Drive)—or the big miles-per-gallon figure it delivers with such thrills?

Can you equal this traveler's roominess in any other car of comparable cost—get full-size headroom, legroom and hip-room both front and rear in any other 2-door automobile?

Can you come even near the gentle levelness of its ride and the solid steadiness of its going—have coil springs on all four wheels and a torque-tube feel beneath you—except in another Buick?

And where can you top the restful ease and luxurious smoothness of this sweetheart's DynaFlow Drive* in any other automobile at any price?

The answers, from a lot of certain-sure folks, sum up to a great big, "YOU CAN'T!" But why take anyone else's word for it? Come in and get your own answers. Look over this bed-rock-priced Buick—compare it with any other automobile at the same money—and you'll agree you can't beat this smartest of buys.

Too Late To Classify

Russell Key

My good friend Don Lochner, public relations executive with the John H. Swisher and Sons organization of Jacksonville, recalling that I like to hammer things occasionally, calls my attention to an exciting new bulletin just issued by the U. S. Department of Labor.

It consists of 16 pages and is entitled "Use of Hammers the Safe Way." You can purchase a copy for your own by sending 5 cents in stamps or coin to the General Publications Office in Washington.

Few of us realize how much the Great White Father is doing to protect and care for his children. It is really amazing to me how our outstanding authorities among the bureaucrats manage to dig up the facts and are able to advise the public as they do.

Here I have been fooling around with hammers for more years than I want to mention and I never realized that anybody cared. It is comforting to know that from here on out I can indulge in this dangerous occupation, safe in the knowledge that good old Uncle Sam and the U. S. Department of Labor is standing squarely behind me, and all I have to do to be safe is read the book and follow instructions.

I have been mighty lucky, for in my extreme ignorance I failed to follow Rule 1, which says I quote, "Wear safety goggles to protect the eyes." Now I've got a dozen or more hammers but in all my life I've never owned a pair of safety goggles.

In all these years it has never occurred to me that I might hit myself in the eye with a hammer. Now if it had said to wear a guard on my thumb, that would make sense on the basis of my personal experience. But who am I to start an argument with a college trained bureaucrat, particularly when I am paying him for more years than I want to mention

Rule 2 is intriguing. It says

I quote, "Grasp the hammer handle firmly near the end, with your thumb and index finger, which end it don't say which hand, but then I suppose even in this present day of rules, regulations and regimentation, the bureaucrats are willing to allow a poor dumb citizen a certain degree of free choice."

Now I don't know whether or not the guy who wrote the book ever tried driving a circus tent stake by grasping the hammer firmly in one hand or not, but he ought to try it sometime.

Rule 3 instructs you to "grasp the nail between the thumb and fingers of the other hand." This may be difficult at first, but if you practice awhile you can master it. Remember, you don't "hold" the nail, you "grasp" it. That's another mistake I've been making, holding my nails when I should have been grasping them. I hope you grasp what I'm driving at.

Where are we getting some where. Assuming that you have the hammer grasped in one hand and the helpless nail grasped between the thumb and fingers of the other hand, you are ready to go places.

Rule 4 says to "start the nail, strike it squarely, but lightly, until it has penetrated the lumber to a depth sufficient to hold securely." Up to this point, instructions have been fairly clear, but the writer of this rule neglected to caution the eager student that while he is grasping one nail between his thumb and fingers, he also has several other nails permanently attached to said thumb and fingers. He'd better be damned careful which nail or nails he hits, lightly or otherwise.

Rule 5 reads, "Remove the hand and increase the force of the blow until the nail is driven home." It would be well to follow this rule carefully especially with the hammer with the hammer. Of course if you don't remove it and should hit the wrong nail, don't worry, you will remove it anyhow and fast. I'm speaking from experience.

Personally I think the U. S. Department of Labor is to be congratulated on this magnificent bit of public service. Citizens and taxpayers of the nation should indeed be gratified with the knowledge that we have such wisdom and leadership to fall back on. Even to the driving of a nail, we are cared for and looked after by experts.

On the other hand, the only guy I ever met who didn't know how to drive a nail with a hammer couldn't read either and on him such literature would be wasted.

Rule 6 says to "grasp the nail between the thumb and fingers of the other hand, you are ready to go places."

SELECTIVE SERVICE MAY GRANT DEFERMENT TO NEED SKILLED WORKERS

In a recent conference in Washington, D. C., Lieutenant Colonel Lewis F. Kosch, Chief of the Manpower Division of the Selective Service System, announced that as a means of protecting the future supply of skilled workers, Selective Service is considering and will probably grant deferment rights for at least six months similar to those deferments granted to college students.

"Industry," he said, "in recruiting workers for apprenticeship, should, however, consider hiring individuals who have been rejected by the Selective Service Boards and soldiers returning from Korea, who are not immediately vulnerable to the draft."

The Federal Committee on Apprenticeship has made recommendations, the intent of which is presently being discussed with officials in the National Selective Service, as follows:

"It should be the policy of the government to maintain and augment necessary skills as required to preserve our national economic and social way of life, and to utilize such skills to the greatest advantage to the nation. To accomplish this objective, it is recommended that bona fide apprentices with six months or more of training be deferred to completion of apprenticeship upon certification by joint apprenticeship committees, employers, or other appropriate authorities."

The Florida Apprenticeship Council, led by Chairman Raymond E. Barnes, recommends the development of an intelligent plan to exempt from the armed forces those apprentices now registered and being trained for an essential craft on the same basis of equality of treatment as in any other educational pursuit. Such a plan should have three major aspects: (a) Serving only those industries and crafts which are most essential to emergency production, (b) Precluding the possibility of any person entering into training for the purpose of avoiding his obligation with regard to the military service.

(c) Recognizing the fact that in any emergency the public interest and welfare can best be served by:

1. Military strength, and 2. Production geared to meet the needs of the military in the first instance, with other essential needs to follow thereafter.

The council further recommends that employers, unions, and local joint apprenticeship committees make every effort to recruit apprentices from World War II who are presently exempt from military service; from disabled and handicapped persons whose disabilities do not render them vocationally handicapped for the trade to be learned; from those older persons whose age in normal times would preclude them from apprenticeship; and from any group that cannot qualify for the military but can qualify for apprenticeship.

VETERANS INFORMATION AND SERVICE

The need for more Veterans Administration hospitals has been well established and is further high-lighted by the present emergency prevailing as a result of the fighting in Korea, which, therefore, has resulted in a joint release made by the VA and the Armed Services of a plan for treating our service personnel within the VA hospital system. Some of these sick and disabled service personnel do need specialized medical care that is not always available within the Armed Services, but is available within some of our VA hospitals, and these young servicemen are entitled to the best of rehabilitation for service-connected disabilities.

This plan has now been approved and it will affect certain types of disabilities which make it improbable that the individual basis to certain VA hospitals for specialized medical treatment and rehabilitation.

Most of these men would be VA patients upon discharge, but the plan now to be adopted will speed up treatment and guarantee the best of rehabilitation.

The types of cases which are to be transferred from Armed Services hospitals to VA hospitals are severe injuries to the nervous system, including quadriplegia, hemiplegia, paraplegia, the blind and the deaf, major amputees and neurological disabilities. It is also evident that cases requiring extensive plastic surgery will be transferred; and, certainly, some of the acute tuberculosis and psychotic cases will be released to the VA hospitals by the Armed Services as quickly as possible.

The extent of the use of VA beds for this purpose will depend upon future casualty lists, and it is apparent that only certain VA hospitals will be used in this program.

This general plan will help to retain many of the specialists now in the VA hospital system, which I feel is most important, and will also help to reduce the demands upon the VA for essential medical personnel in the various branches of the Armed Services.

I would like to point out that this plan will not actually cause any permanent reduction in the number of beds available to veterans, because most of these men will be veterans, and, as a matter of fact, the use of our VA system for the case of these men will help to strengthen our demands for additional new VA beds.

No Fla. National Guard Units On Alert Status

"No Florida National Guard units are on an alert status" was a statement given recently by Major General Mark W. Lance, the Adjutant General of Florida, in response to inquiries concerning the call of the National Guard into active military service.

"All members of the Florida National Guard may continue their normal civilian life and occupations," said General Lance. It is the present policy of the Department of the Army to give at least three months advance notice to units of the National Guard prior to call into active service.

Defense is your job, too!

Swabbing down their cruiser's forecastle deck or passing ammunition to her eight-inch guns, it's all in the day's duty for these young American seamen. Day or night, fair weather or foul, they're on the job, keeping the United States Navy our First Line of Defense—for America and for you.

But in these critical times, defense is your job, too. And one of the most important parts of that job is maintaining the economic strength of America, as the sailors are working to maintain her naval strength. How can you do that? By buying U.S. Defense Bonds—buying them now and buying them regularly. So go to your pay office and join the Payroll Savings Plan or sign up at your bank for the Bond-A-Month Plan. But do it today!

The U. S. Defense Bonds you buy give you personal financial independence

Remember that when you're buying Defense Bonds you're building a personal reserve of cash savings. Money that will some day buy you a house or educate your children, or support you when you retire. Remember, too, that if you don't save regularly, you generally don't save at all. So go to your company's pay office—now—and sign up to buy Defense Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Don't forget that bonds are now a better buy than ever. Because now every Series B Bond you own automatically goes on earning interest every year for 20 years from date of purchase instead of 10 as before! This means that the bond you bought for $18.75 can return you not just $25—but as much as $33.31! A $37.50 bond pays $66.66. And so on. For your security, and your country's, too, buy U.S. Defense Bonds now!

Construction Under Way on New FFVA Office Building

Construction of a new office building for the Florida Fruit & Vegetable Association, a statewide organization, is now under way in Orlando. When completed the new structure will be the headquarters of the Association, whose members grow and ship the bulk of Florida's $120,000,000 annual crop of fruits and vegetables except citrus.

The new building is scheduled for completion about October 1 and will be occupied immediately following the Eighth Annual Convention of the Association in Miami Beach on October 3, 4 and 5. Present offices of the organization are also in Orlando.

An urgent need for twice the present floor space as a result of increased activities requiring additional personnel was given the reason for the move from present quarters. The office building, which will be 40 feet, is to be of reinforced concrete and masonry construction. Air-conditioned, it will consist of a general manager's office, a large office and assembly room, and a mailing room.

LaMonte Graw, general manager of the Association explained that the directors selected Orlando for the building because of the convenience of such a central location to the hundreds of members whose enterprises are located in nearly all parts of the state.

Graw said, "The Florida Fruit & Vegetable Association, then known as the Florida Vegetable Committee, was organized in 1943 to serve growers and shippers of Florida's fresh vegetables then facing the complications brought about by wartime conditions.

"The organization, composed of representative Florida farmers presented a united front and was instrumental in bringing the needs and importance of Florida's agricultural industry to the attention of government officials. Results were shown in many ways. Essential legislation, additional labor supply, and agricultural chemicals and containers gained in this manner, contributed to the success with which Florida met the nation's wartime need for fresh produce.

"Following the last war the Association functioned in the readjustment of the industry to peacetime production. In this phase of endeavor, FFVA established a continuing project of close cooperation with business and government in research to constantly improve the quality of production and marketing to result in lowered costs to both consumer and producer.

"Now with conditions similar to those facing the industry in the last war before us, FFVA is using the experience gained in its earliest years, to solve the problems of its members.

"The erection of our new building is significant of FFVA's permanent importance to the Florida fruit and vegetable industry. The importance of the industry to the economic situation in this state is summed up in the $120,000,000 annual volume of production. This figure does not include citrus, except times, other citrus crops being served by other organizations.

"It is interesting to note that Florida supplies great percentages of vegetables shipped to the nation's markets. As an example, of the nation's annual supply of fresh snap beans, Florida supplies 37%. In this respect, other figures are also impressive, such as for eggplants, 60 percent; green peppers, 40 percent; celery, 23 percent; and tomatoes, 22 percent," concluded Graw.

There are 16 employees of the Association. Officers are: Luther L. Chandler, Graw, chairman; A. Dixon Pearce, Miami, vice chairman; LaMonte Graw, Orlando, secretary and general manager; and Joffre C. David, Orlando, now in service, treasurer. The executive committee is composed of Chandler and Pearce and Paul B. Dickman, Basking Ridge, N.J.; J. Oviello, and Rudolph Mattson, Fort Pierce.

Poultry Industry Grows in Florida During Year

Florida produced 37,997,000 pounds of poultry meat for market last year, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce reported yesterday.

Special enterprises for raising broilers produced 69% of the year's volume of poultry meat raised in the State. The balance consisted of poultry raised on farms. Included in the total is approximately five million pounds consumed on farm households. The total number of chickens raised for market reached 12,427,000 last year. Back-yard flocks which produced about 1,100,000 pounds are not included in these figures.

This week's business review of the State Chamber's research and industrial division brought out the fact that although Florida's poultry industry has expanded rapidly in recent years, the volume of poultry meat consumed in the State last year was virtually double the amount produced. Demand was met by importations from other areas.

Producers and farmers were paid a gross total of 10,622,000 for their 1950 crop of broilers and chickens. In addition to this poultry meat income, eggs sold brought $7,215,000 and turkeys, $869,000, resulting in a total for the industry of $18,706,000.

LIFE-LINES OF FLORIDA PROGRESS!

Fast-growing Florida depends more and more on the telephone. Its economic and social life are geared to it. Last year Floridians made almost 900 million local calls.

Today Floridians can call more than 2 1/2 times as many local telephones as they could ten years ago and the service is better. Yet the overall price of telephone service has gone up less than one-fourth as much as prices in general.

The demand for more and more telephones continues, and Southern Bell hopes to build during 1951 nearly $22 million of new facilities to provide the expansion and improvement of telephone service that is so essential to Florida's progress, and to national defense.—Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.
